

This paper introduces static and dynamic competitive optimal control of DC/DC converters in DC microgrids based on game theory considering mutual effects. Using static and dynamic game theories, the conditions for competitive optimal control of DC/DC converters in Nash equilibrium with static and dynamic states are determined.

Opening of the 14th National Games of China unfolded in Xi'an on Wednesday night. The ancient city makes no secret to its ambitions: the zero-COVID strategy for public health and spectators...

Energy trading mechanism for microgrids has an inherent two-layer architecture, in which the energy trading at the first layer is between a microgrid aggregator and consumers (e.g., households ...

Under the theme of "Games for all, together in mind and action", the 14th National Games features a total of 54 sports including 595 events, of which 35 sports and 410 events are set for elite athletes, while the remainder are mass sports programs. Most events will be held in Shaanxi Province, while sailing, canoe slalom, surfing, breakdance ...

Under the environment of sustainable development in China, more renewable energy is applied in the power market, but there is still a serious phenomenon of abandoning light and wind at present. How to improve the utilization rate of renewable energy is a problem worth studying. In this paper, renewable energy power suppliers in microgrid and thermal power suppliers in bulk power grid ...

HULUN BUIR, Feb. 17, 2024 (Xinhua) -- China's 14th National Winter Games, featuring more than 3,000 athletes nationwide, officially opens in Hulun Buir, north China's Inner Mongolia Autonomous Region, Feb. 17, 2024.

Leveraging a modified IEEE 13-node distribution microgrid consisting of three DERs, the study presents case studies encompassing both cooperative and non-cooperative evolutionary game scenarios.
